Zambia Must Prosper

ZMP

Profile

Kelvin Fube Bwalya (KBF) is a lawyer, author and political leader. He holds a Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of Zambia and founded the law firm KBF & Partners in 1992. He was later appointed State Counsel in recognition of his contribution to the legal profession. He has also served as Chairperson of the Competition and Consumer Protection Commission (CCPC) of Zambia.

Economic Agenda

KBF's vision is bold and ambitious. Drawing from his books Zambia Must Prosper and Zambia Must Prosper II, he argues that Zambia has all the ingredients for prosperity but lacks the leadership to unlock them. KBF's headline pledges include growing the economy to US$150 billion, creating 5 million jobs, and ensuring 90% Zambian ownership of the economy. He also proposes building 3 new production cities every year, boosting agriculture and manufacturing, freezing government vehicle purchases for 2 years, and cutting the top PAYE tax rate to spur investment and put more money in workers' pockets.

Political History

KBF is a former Patriotic Front member who served as Deputy Chairperson for Elections and played a key roles in the election victories of Presidents Michael Sata and Edgar Lungu. After leaving the Patriotic Front, he founded the Zambia Must Prosper party in 2022 and has since campaigned on long-term national planning, institutional renewal and evidence-based economic transformation.

Movement for Economci Emancipation

MEE

Profile

Mwenya Chansa is the presidential candidate for the Movement for Economic Emancipation (MEE). Mwenya Chansa has built his career in the private sector, specialising in business strategy and economic policy advisory. Chansa has also held directorships and exercised significant control over United Kingdom-based companies operating in the wireless communications, vehicle rental and leasing sectors

Economic Agenda

Economic transformation is central to Mwenya Chansa's campaign. His proposals prioritise expanding local production, supporting small and medium-sized enterprises, promoting industrialisation, and increasing Zambian ownership of strategic sectors. Mwenya Chansa advocates localised processing of natural resources, while improving access to finance, strengthening agricultural value chains, and fostering youth entrepreneurship. Key policy proposals include constructing 9,000 km of new roads, reserving government construction contracts for Zambian-owned companies, reducing the Cabinet to 15 ministries, installing 1 million rooftop solar units to expand energy access, and restricting land ownership to Zambian citizens.

Political History

Given Mwenya Chansa founded the Movement for Economic Emancipation as an alternate political platform focused on transforming Zambia's economic governance rather than personality driven politics. His political message emphasises national self-reliance and citizen ownership.

Profile

Hakainde Hichilema is Zambia's incumbent president and leader of the United Party for National Development (UPND). An economist and entrepreneur, he built his reputation in the boardroom before the politics. A holder of a Bachelor's degree in Economics and Business Administration from the University of Zambia and an MBA in Finance and Business Strategy. He has served on numerous corporate boards, including as Chair of Barclays Bank Zambia Plc, Sun International Zambia and Africa Trade Insurance, and is a member of the Zambia Institute of Directors. Hichilema has made economic recovery, economic growth and investment the centrepiece of both his presidency and his re-election campaign.

Economic Agenda

Economic recovery remains the cornerstone of Hichilema's re-election campaign. His campaign points to several economic achievements during his 1st term including restructuring of Zambia's debt, tighter fiscal discipline, and renewed investor confidence. His signature success being fulfilling on the campaign promise to deliver free primary and secondary education. Looking ahead, Hichilema pledges to create 2 million new jobs, expand irrigation by 500,000 hectares, increase copper production to 3 million metric tonnes annually, and grow Zambia's beef industry into a US$1 billion-a-year export sector.

Political History

Hakainde Hichilema assumed leadership of the UPND in 2006 following the death of the party's founder, Anderson Mazoka. He contested the presidency on six occasions before securing victory in the 2021 General Election defeating incumbent President Edgar Lungu and becoming Zambia's 7th President.

General Election

13 August 2026

Profile

Harry Kalaba is a former civil servant, diplomat and cabinet minister who served as Minister of Foreign Affairs, Minister of Lands, Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, and Deputy Minister in the Office of the Vice President. He holds qualifications in philosophy, public administration and a Master of Business Administration. Before entering elective politics, he notably worked as an Assistant Director in the Ministry of Lands and Ministry of Works & Supply. One of Kalaba's favourite campaign points is his claim that, while serving as a Cabinet minister, he turned down special allowances and preferential loans, holding it up as proof of his commitment to integrity.

Economic Agenda

Harry Kalaba's Citizens First manifesto focuses on diversification, industrialisation and job creation. Key priorities include promoting local value addition in mining and reducing raw material exports to less than 30% of total exports and investing in provincial solar energy to address power shortages. Kalaba also advocates for partnerships between government, the private sector and academia to boost the economy. Additionally, Kalaba seeks to improve learner-teacher ratio from 150:1 to manageable levels, expanding land ownership through title deeds for all Zambians above 18, and strengthening transparency through mandatory annual asset declarations for senior public officials.

Political History

Harry Kalaba served as Patriotic Front (PF) Member of Parliament for Bahati from 2011 to 2019 and held the positions of Minister of Lands and Minister of Foreign Affairs under Presidents Michael Sata and Edgar Lungu. After leaving the PF in 2019, he contested the 2021 presidential election under the Democratic Party before founding Citizens First in 2022.

Profile

Mwelwa is the only woman among Zambia's presidential candidates. An entrepreneur by background, she founded Shimweo Investments Limited, a business brokerage firm operating across Zambia and the SADC region. She holds an honorary doctorate in Public Administration and a Bachelor of Business Administration, and also serves on the boards of the Shimweo Institute and Tselach Education Agency.

Economic Agenda

Given Mwelwa isn't pitching herself as the candidate of deep pockets, but of everyday pockets. Her campaign leans heavily on grassroots support and wants to shift Zambia's economic dependency beyond mining. Her message is simple: invest more in agriculture, back small-scale "peasant" farmers, and turn food security into economic security. Forget billion-dollar bailouts, Mwelwa's idea starts small but thinks big. She wants every willing Zambian in the diaspora to contribute US$3 to US$10 towards a Sovereign Wealth Fund, arguing that collective patriotism can be as valuable as foreign capital, especially around empowerment and resolving Zambia’s debt issue.

Political History

Mwelwa was first elected Member of Parliament for Chiengi constituency in 2016 under the Forum for Democracy and Development (FDD), becoming the constituency's first-ever female MP and was re-elected in 2021 as the only independent. She was elected in 2019 to chair the Inter Parliamentary Union's Advisory Group on Health, reflecting a parliamentary focus on health policy. Mwelwa announced her independent presidential bid in October 2025, framing her candidacy as a rejection of Zambia's party system.

General Election
13 August 2026

Profile

Howard Kunda is a lawyer and politician who studied law at the University of Zambia and has practised in both the public and private legal sectors. He is the son of the late George Kunda, Zambia's former Vice President and former Minister of Justice. Kunda previously served as Chairperson of the Parliamentary Public Accounts Committee, where he oversaw parliamentary scrutiny of public expenditure and government accountability. He has also advocated for the preservation of Zambia's cultural heritage, including championing the repatriation of the remains of Crown Prince Samuwana Jollick Kazanda.

Economic Agenda

Howard Kunda wants Zambia to own more of its future and its wealth. His economic message centres on self-reliance, arguing that Zambians should own and benefit from the country's strategic industries. He backs local entrepreneurs, small businesses and industrialisation, while pushing for more value addition in mining, agriculture and manufacturing instead of exporting raw materials. One of Kunda's most distinctive proposals is expanding the State Security sector role in agricultural production to strengthen food security while favouring a more market-driven farming sector by reducing government control over crop marketing.

Political History

Kunda is the president of the ZAWAPA party president. He formerly represented Muchinga Constituency in the National Assembly from 2012 to 2021 under the MMP party. In 2023 Kunda founded the Zambia Wake-Up Party (ZAWAPA), which he describes as a citizen driven political movement established to promote accountable leadership, democratic governance and inclusive national development.

General Election

13 August 2026

Profile

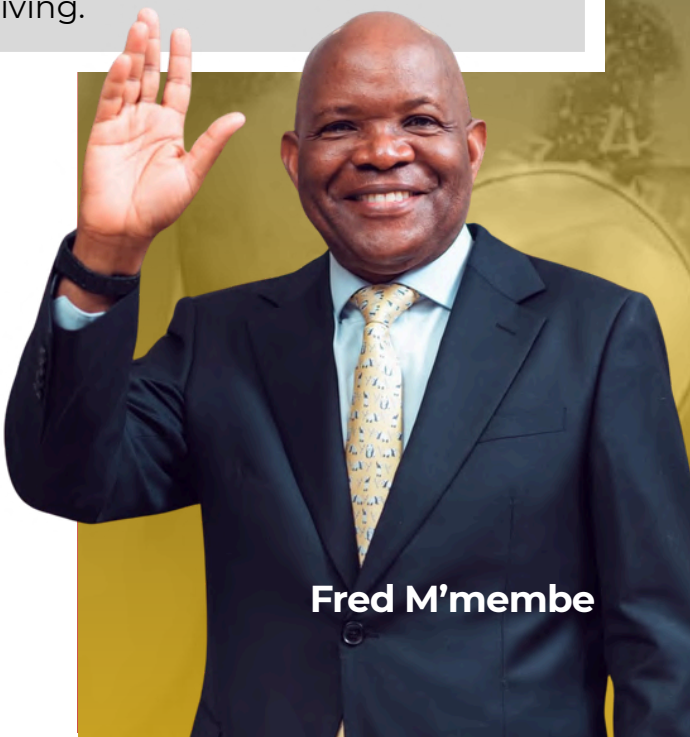

Dr. Fred M'membe is a journalist-turned-politician who built his reputation by taking on those in power. Best known as the founder and former editor-in-chief of The Post, once Zambia's largest independent newspaper, M'membe became one of the country's most influential public voices. He studied Accounting at the Copperbelt University before earning an LLB, an LLM in Taxation and a Master's in Economic Policy Management from the University of Zambia. His decades-long advocacy for press freedom earned international recognition, including the Media Institute of Southern Africa's Press Freedom Award in 1995 and the International Press Institute's World Press Freedom Hero Award in 2000.

Economic Agenda

True to the Socialist mantra, Fred M'membe advocates for a state led development model centred on universal access to education, expanded social welfare programmes, including dedicating 20% of the national budget to healthcare. He advocates greater Zambian ownership of banks and mineral resources, stronger workers' rights and higher taxes on wealth to reduce inequality. M'membe supports cooperative farming to strengthen food security and proposes increasing domestic ownership and taxation of Zambia's mineral resources while stopping short of wholesale nationalisation. M'membe also campaigns for stronger labour protections, arguing that economic growth should reduce inequality and improve the standard of living.

Political History

Following the closure of The Post newspaper in 2016, Fred M'membe became increasingly active in opposition politics. He founded the Socialist Party in 2018 after leaving the Rainbow Party and contested the 2021 presidential election under the Socialist Party. He was re-elected unopposed as Socialist Party president during the party's second congress in 2024.

Profile

Brian Mundubile is a lawyer, chartered accountant and experienced parliamentarian. He studied law at the University of Zambia and qualified as a Chartered Accountant. Mundubile formerly worked for the Zambia Development Agency. Since entering Parliament, he has represented Mporokoso Constituency in Northern Province and has become one of Zambia's leading opposition figures. In 2026, he was elected the presidential candidate of the Tonse Alliance, a coalition of opposition parties seeking to unseat the United Party for National Development (UPND).

Economic Agenda

Brian Mundubile's economic agenda, guided by the Tonse Alliance manifesto, prioritises human capital development, job creation and private sector-led growth. Tonse Alliance targets sustained annual economic growth of 6–7%, aims to double formal employment to 2.5 million jobs, raise the PAYE tax-free threshold, minimum wage in the mining sector and expand investment in agriculture, mining and manufacturing. The Alliance and Mundubile also propose strengthening education and skills development while reserving 30% of public SME procurement for women-owned businesses.

Political History

Brian Mundubile has spent much of the past decade climbing Zambia's political ladder. The Patriotic Front (PF) Member of Parliament for Mporokoso Constituency, Mundubile first contested the seat on the MMD ticket in 2011 before winning it under the PF banner in 2016. He later served as Northern Province Minister and Government Chief Whip. In 2026, Mundubile, emerged as the Tonse Alliance's candidate and is contesting under the National Revolution Party United (NRPUP).

Profile

Dr. Brian Mushimba is the founder and President of the Organised Peoples Party (OPP). After graduating from the University of Arizona in the United States, he worked as an electrical controls engineer in both the United States and Zambia, building extensive experience in the power generation sector. He later served as Technical Director at Eskom South Africa, Regional Executive for the African market at a Norwegian power company, and a member of the Executive Committee of the Southern African Power Pool (SAPP).

Economic Agenda

Brian Mushimba's economic profile combines engineering expertise, energy sector leadership, and development-focused policy. Drawing on senior roles in the global power industry, including at Great Lakes Africa Energy (GLAE), Siemens Power Generation, Eskom, and Algonquin Power, he advocates infrastructure-led growth as the foundation for economic recovery. His policy agenda emphasises expanding electricity generation, revitalising agriculture through regional development banks, and supporting value addition by reopening industries such as Mulungushi Textiles to stimulate employment and industrialisation.

Political History

Brian Mushimba was elected Member of Parliament for Kankoyo Constituency in 2016 and served in the Patriotic Front government from 2016 to 2021. He was Minister of Transport and Communications (2016–2019), where he played a key role in the relaunch of Zambia Airways, before serving as Minister of Higher Education (2019–2021).

Ackim Njobvu began his career as an flight engineer with the Zambia Air Force at age 23, working on aircraft that used to carry the President, before moving into corporate finance. He built a career in finance and insurance, rising to Chief Financial Officer at firms including Mayfair Insurance and Marsh Zambia. He holds multiple professional qualifications: Fellow of the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (FCCA), Fellow of the Zambia Institute of Chartered Accountants (FZICA), senior membership of the Economics Association of Zambia, Chartered Global Investment Analyst (CGIA, US), and a Chartered Insurance Institute (CII, UK) qualification. He is also active in youth mentorship through the Common Grounds Network and speaks publicly about his Christian faith commitment which he describes as central to his motivation for entering politics.

Economic Agenda

Njobvu positions himself as a technically qualified steward of Zambia's public finances. His campaign message emphasises on the creation of 4 million jobs, leveraging on capital economic zones, protecting and growing the national reserves through the establishment of various Development Funds and professional, technocratic management rather than populist promises. Njobvu argues that Zambia should tackle its debt crisis by repaying its debts rather than pursuing further debt restructuring, framing himself as offering competence over campaign "gimmicks.

Political History

He founded and leads the Democratic Union (DU) and filed his presidential nomination in May 2026 with running mate Miriam Banda, initially campaigning strongly on an anti-incumbent message, declaring "it is time to retire President Hichilema and the UPND."

Daniel Chibale Pule, widely known as Professor Dan, is an educator, businessman and veteran clergyman who serves as President of the Christian Democratic Party (CDP). He has been active in Zambia's political landscape since the country's return to multiparty democracy in the early 1990s and is recognised for advocating governance grounded in Christian values, ethical leadership and social justice.

Economic Agenda

The Christian Democratic Party and Pule's economic agenda are underpinned by its broader philosophy of ethical governance, social justice and inclusive development. Pule advocates strengthening agriculture, supporting local enterprise and promoting responsible management of Zambia's natural resources to generate employment and reduce poverty.

Political History

Daniel Pule is the founder and president of the Christian Democratic Party (CDP), which he established in 2013. A veteran politician, he has played a prominent role in opposition politics, serving as Vice-Chairperson and later Caretaker Chairperson of the Tonse Alliance. Following the death of former President Edgar Lungu in 2025, Pule oversaw the Tonse Alliance during a period of leadership disputes. The CDP unanimously adopted him as its presidential candidate at its January 2026 national convention.

Profile

Richwell Siamunene is a former Cabinet minister who has worn several government hats, from Deputy Minister of Transport, Works, Supply and Communication to Deputy Minister of Commerce, Trade and Industry, before being appointed Minister of Defence by President Edgar Lungu in 2015. Now leading the New Focus Party (NFP), Siamunene hopes to cook up a different kind of politics.

Economic Agenda

Richwell Siamunene says Zambia doesn't need another tweak to the system, it needs a reset. Casting both the PF and UPND economic models as ideas that have run their course, he calls for a new economic and social order built on self-reliance rather than foreign assistance. Branding the New Focus Party as a vehicle for change, he champions investment in education, technology and skills while pushing for greater Zambian ownership and value addition in mining. A recurring theme of his campaign is keeping more of Zambia's mineral wealth at home by curbing the externalisation of profits and strengthening economic nationalism.

Political History

Richwell Siamunene is a former Member of Parliament for Sinazongwe Constituency, first elected under the United Party for National Development (UPND). In 2025, he joined the formation of the Zambia We Want party and sought its presidential nomination before shifting his focus to the New Focus Party for the 2026 General Election

LM

Profile

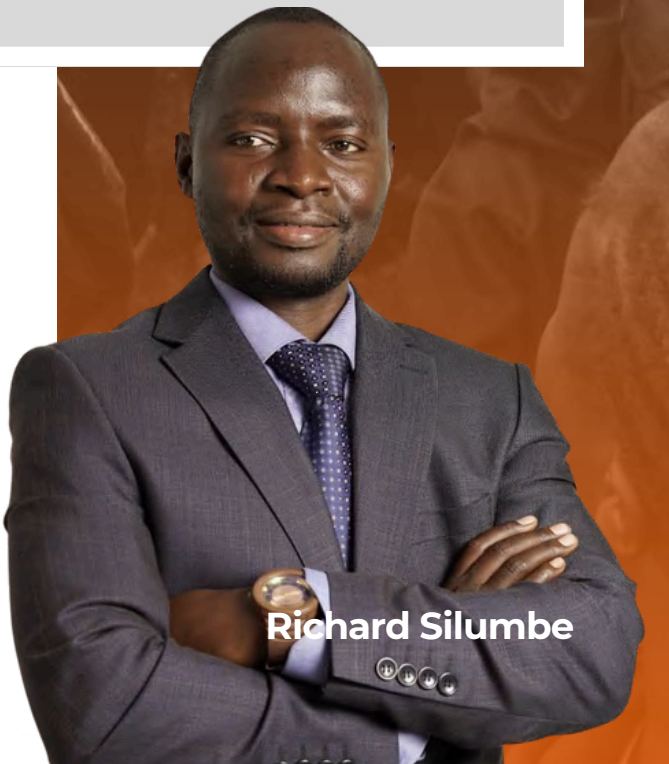

Dr. Richard Silumbe is the founder and President of the Leadership Movement (LM) and chairs the boards of two Lusaka based institutions, the Zambia Research and Development Centre (ZRDC) and the Information and Communications University (ICU).

Economic Agenda

Dr. Silumbe advocates a state-led development model centred on strengthening national ownership of key economic sectors and promoting local enterprise. His policy proposals include issuing title deeds to address Zambia's housing challenges, while maintaining restrictions on foreign land ownership by requiring foreign investors to lease land from Zambian citizens. In agriculture, he proposes reforming the Farmer Input Support Programme by allocating inputs according to the size of land cultivated rather than using a uniform distribution system, alongside establishing Zambia National Service Farms in every district to enhance food security and agricultural productivity. He also supports expanding state participation in the mining sector through Zambia National Service-led mining operations, introducing tax breaks and incentives for local businesses, and pursuing a national economic agenda that prioritises domestic production, local entrepreneurship, and Zambia's long-term economic self-reliance.

Political History

Silumbe is the founder of the Leadership Movement and has led the party for a decade. He first contested the presidency in the 2021 general election with Kaela Kamwenesha as his running mate, campaigning on a 4 Pillars manifesto built around women's empowerment and job creation.

Christian Churches Monitoring Group (CCMG) was launched on 28 November 2014 to monitor the 20th January 2015 presidential elections. Since then, the network has committed itself to monitoring the whole electoral process that led to the 2016 and 2021 general elections and has now committed itself to monitoring the whole electoral process leading to the 2026 general elections.

CCMG is a consortium of three members, including the Council of Churches in Zambia (CCZ), Evangelical Fellowship of Zambia (EFZ), and the Zambia Conference of Catholic Bishops (ZCCB). To effectively monitor the electoral process, CCMG formulated an Electoral Process Monitoring Project partnership formed to promote credible elections in the 2015 presidential election, 2016 and 2021 general elections, multiple by-elections, the 2020 and 2025 mass voter registration exercises, boundary delimitation, voter register inspection, and now for the upcoming 2026 general elections through non-partisan citizen monitoring, including an election day Process and Results Verification for Transparency (PRVT) for the presidential election.

CCMG's highest decision-making body is its Steering Committee, which comprises the heads of each of the three partner organisations. Father Francis Mukosa, Secretary General - ZCCB, is the Chairperson of the CCMG Steering Committee, Father James Phiri, General Secretary – CCZ, is the spokesperson of the CCMG Steering Committee, Reverend Allan Kasun'gami, Executive Director – EFZ, is a member of the CCMG Steering Committee, and Father Daniel Mutale, Executive Director - JCTR, is a member of the CCMG Steering Committee.
